

From: Eric Geoffroy
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 11/19/01 12:47pm
Subject: How much did MS pay to get off?

My colleagues and I wonder how much more MS paid to get off compared to O.J.

This case that originally was off to a good start has now been touched by dirty hands. The proposed punitive measures are grossly disproportionate to the offenses. Talk about a slap on the wrist. How can our government try to fight voter apathy when it turns its back on its people. A case against a Mega-Monopoly like this has to be fought by a giant if justice stands a chance. The only thing we have to put up against MS is the Federal Government. And our government has backed down again, and once again the badguy gets off, and the people lose hope and respect for our elected officials.

My suggestion to get this case back on track, so that justice can be served-

1. Root out the spineless among you and replace them with people with integrity.
2. Fight this case like you mean it. The fact finding has revealed a lot of dirt and wrongdoing.

Sincerely,

--

Eric Geoffroy
IS Manager
Navis LLC